KELLY'S WEDDING

On May 13, our eldest daughter, Kelly, married John Thompson in a ceremony in Spokane. Kelly is a speech therapist and John is finishing up his last year at The Master's Seminary in California.

Our youngest daughter, Esther, was the matron of honor. Their bouquets were a lovely warm mix of orange and gold, created by their uncle, my brother Todd. The reception hall decorations featured tabletop arrangements of tall wild grasses.

The wedding went well; nobody got sick or fainted. The flower girls--our little granddaughters Naomi and Lizzy--made their way down the aisle without assistance. Not to be outdone, Benji, the ringbearer, sprinted down the aisle--without falling!

During the reception, Eric was called upon to show his dance moves. He did not disappoint, and fortunately, there was a talent scout among the guests. Regretfully, Eric has now resigned from watercolor painting. We have moved to New York where Eric is lining up a slate of Broadway shows he plans to grace with his performance. His schedule will be especially tight as he has also agreed to show some of those moves on Good Morning America.

It's not a gift--it's a calling!

Truly, it is a great comfort to us as parents to see all four of our children happily married!

Chears,

Eric & Ann

P.S. from Eric: Our daughters looked beautiful, the grandchildren were adorable, but the mother of the bride was absolutely stunning in her lovely coral gown!
